

Paul: Okay. So some of you have been asking how to go about connecting your PayPal account in order to receive the automatic commissions from the Completely Keto range into your PayPal.

So very easy to do. You want to sign into your Thrivecart account, who of course manage the affiliate payments for us. Now depending on the access levels that you have, if you use Thrivecart for more than the Completely Keto stuff, you may see a screen like this, or you may simply see my affiliate account on the screen.

Click on go to account and then go into products. Find the vendor. In this case, it's Harlan Kilstein for Completely Keto, and then click on view products. Choose Speed Keto plus bonuses and click on view. And you'll see at the top rate this red button that says, "PayPal inactive." So click on the button and then choose connect your PayPal account.

At this stage, you'll be asked to enter your email. If you already have a PayPal account, this is where you want to put your email address, and of course, select your country or region. Fill these two fields in and click on next, and you'll be taken to the PayPal login screen. Log into PayPal and it will ask you to authenticate your connection. Now bear with me one second because I have two-factor enabled here.

So once you've logged onto PayPal, it will say, "You've successfully authorized WebActix." WebActix are the company that owns the current system that we use to process affiliate payments. So this is what we want to see. Click on go back to WebActix. And now if you go back into products, you'll see a green PayPal active button, and that means that you will receive your automated commissions from us to your PayPal account.

Any questions on this video or anything affiliate related at all, please email affiliates@completelyketo.com. Thank you for watching.
